ANZ claims Australia House of the Year at 2017 Asia Risk Awards

ANZ has won Australia House of the Year at the 2017 Asia Risk Awards, recognising its markets expertise in FX, rates and credit for the second time in three years.

ANZ Managing Director Markets Shayne Collins said: "This win is testament to our focus on providing innovative and robust products to help support customers and their business needs. Our unique international footprint, particularly in Asia, helps us provide valuable solutions to our customers in Australia.

"We've worked hard to shake-up the FX market in Australia providing FX risk management solutions to support our customer's cross border flows and leveraged our in-house platform to respond to customers' needs more quickly and ultimately drive greater volumes," Mr Collins said.

The Asia Risk Awards acknowledge best practice in innovation, risk management, client servicing and product structuring by banks and financial institutions across the region.
